John D. Kelley 2026 7th grade Vocations Essay Contest Winner - Clare Kennedy

In the 1700s, America was built up by a mix of people, including priests and religious following their vocation of making their community a better place. Now, 250 years later, God is still leading His people to thrive and follow Him, especially the youth today who are needed to continue leading others in the Lord's will, to make a better place for everyone.

Around the time that America was founded, St. Junipero Serra was in what would later become California, following his vocation of religious life by founding missions in the region. He traveled a long way listening to God's call, and did many things to serve other people. He can be seen as an example of how we can serve others today.

Many years later, on the Eastside of Indianapolis in 1925, another community called Little Flower came together to listen to God's word, and give Him praise by creating a parish dedicated to the newly canonized St. Therese of Lisieux. This was during a hard time, with anti-Catholic activity across the US, including in Indianapolis, but the community persisted. In 1926 a school was built to teach children about how God loved them. The first people to teach the children were Franciscan sisters. 100 years later, Little Flower continues to teach children like me about God.

The story of our past can teach myself and other young people to always thank God for both great achievements, and little things. It shows us that people dedicated to God founded and built America, and our country needs people dedicated to God to carry it on. Someone's calling might not always be what they expect, but God has a plan for everyone. We must be ready to answer God's call when it comes, and we all need to continue this Church of love and prayer, and Jesus will be with us the whole time.

I am open to whatever vocation God is calling me to follow, and God has been leading me to make my own contributions by giving me opportunities to love and serve my neighbor. Through my parish (Little Flower), in my community, and even in the classroom, God has been guiding me to do His Will. For example, I help at various activities in my parish, like fish fries, Christmas giving trees, Vacation Bible School, being an altar server, and helping to set up and work at our yearly festival. Through these activities, Little Flower has taught me to use my time, talent, and treasure for good and others. Furthermore, this service has helped me to conclude that whatever vocation I end up fulfilling, I always want to be helping others.

Overall, as today's youth, my peers and I must be prepared to serve others, and to carry on the Church of God and listen to His call. We all need to appreciate and remember the examples of the past, in order to improve the future.

Clare is the daughter of Steve and Mary Kennedy.
